g. During the reporting period, the Office of Security advised NASA that a field investigation, as opposed to a National Agency check, is required in instances where access to compartmented information is required and the background investigation of the candidate for access more than five years old. Our position is consistent with standards of DCID 1/14 and is of import as an example of a continuing problem in dealing with agencies not in the Intelligence Community but with a need for access to compartmented data.
